Unusual Deciduous Species

February 2014

Dear Friends,

As we look at the coming spring, we're moved to highlight notable opportunity items that are consistent profit-makers.

Consider Red Japanese Maple seedlings – Acer palmatum var. atropurpureum. Our exceptional crop is an example of a strong profit opportunity: attractive seedling price, deep red-colored foliage that persists well into the summer heat, easy to grow, and consistently popular.

We grow these 1 & 2-yr. bareroot seedlings from our own orchard-source seed. We cull the few off-colored ones in summer and any greenish stems at harvest. With their uniform color intensity, you'd have a hard time distinguishing them from grafted varieties.... a sight for tired eyes in the greenhouses all season long. Shipped inexpensively, the smaller ones fit perfectly into #1 pots. The branched ones are may fit in a #2 or #3 pot better.

Let's just review the cost numbers for a #1 pot promo item: Delivered liner at about 2 bucks, pot and soil mix at under 40 cents, and labor at 10 cents for a total of $2.50 each. Bring them in early and flip them at $3.25 in your GC or wholesale firm, depending on how hard you want to promote them. That's 75 cents profit on $2.50 cost, or 30% margin within 4 months - an annualized return of 90% (not counting sunk costs for space, equipment, etc.).

Lots of folks would smile about a return like that with modest risks if they had the space, staff and know-how. You may have re-cycled pots or a way to save other costs that would allow you to price lower for the same return, or hold price and get a better return. Garden centers put them out front for a color item. Others re-wholesale them in considerably larger quantities. Of course, it's best to get them potted early for quick re-establishment in your pot. So stuff them into a poly house and get them rooted in - fit for sale by Mother's Day. Summer hold-overs are great for fall sales.

This is a hardy color item, one widely recognized and popular in big numbers, easy to pot up and care for. Others include Green Japanese maple, an often overlooked small tree with timeless appeal in almost any landscape – commercial or residential. Birches, hornbeams, katsura, fringetree...even simple items like Chinese dogwood are small-stature trees that can turn a quick profit if you force them early and get them sold in the same season. What about the extremely tough purple smoketree priced under a dollar, with all of the same benefits of red Japanese maples?

Opportunity within these pages but not unless you call us.

The market for native plants seems a bit stronger every year, considering that they have the potential to save maintenance costs and improve pollinator habitat if they're appropriately placed and integrated thoughtfully with non-native ornamentals. Consider these natives as you look at the blend of natives and other ornamentals in your product line.
